3. Assistants

The Returning Officer shall appoint members to assist him or her in the issue of ballot papers and the counting of votes at a meeting. The Assistants shall be ineligible to be candidates in any election at which they officiate. At least two such assistants shall be present with the Returning Officer during the counting of votes.

4. List of voters

The Committee shall ensure that, at least two days prior to the conduct of any election, the Returning Officer is provided with a list of all members of the Association.

5. Nominations

- (a) As soon as possible after the close of nominations, the Secretary, or other person authorised by the Committee to do so, shall assist the Returning Officer to verify that the nominees and persons nominating them are current members. The Returning Officer, subject to section 50 of the Act, and provided he or she has reasonable grounds to do so, has final discretion to determine the validity of any nomination.
- (b) If at a meeting where an election is to be held a member asserts that she or he has been validly nominated in writing; or is the beneficiary of a valid proxy which has been forwarded in accordance with the rules, but the Returning Officer is not in possession of the nomination or proxy, the Returning Officer may, subject to Section 50 of the Act and notwithstanding any other rule to the contrary, in his or her absolute discretion accept evidence of the forwarding of the nomination or proxy and, if there is such evidence, may accept a duplicate or substitute written nomination or proxy as though it were the original document.

6. Issue of ballot papers

At a convenient time immediately prior to or during the meeting at which the election is to be held, the Returning Officer shall issue ballot papers to members seeking to vote. The list of members or list of proxies shall be marked off as each ballot paper or set of papers is issued. Every ballot paper shall be initialled personally on the front by the Returning Officer or one of the assistants appointed by the Returning Officer. If the ballot papers are not pre-printed with the date of the election, they shall be dated by the Returning Officer or assistant as they are issued. A ballot paper shall be invalid if it is not initialled and dated. The Returning Officer shall ensure safe custody of any initialled papers and shall ensure that any unused initialled papers are destroyed.

7. Format of ballot papers

Blank sheets of paper, sufficiently large to write the names of all candidates clearly in order of preference, shall suffice for ballot papers. However, the Returning Officer may arrange for ballot papers to be pre-printed in any convenient format, such as the following.

8. Order of filling of vacancies

In any election, vacant positions shall be filled in the following order: President, Vice-President, Treasurer, Secretary, Ordinary Committee members.

9. Receipt of nominations at the meeting

If in accordance with rule 23, nominations are required to be received at the meeting where the election is to be held, the Returning Officer shall at an appropriate time call for nominations. Such nominations must be made by a member and seconded by another member and shall require the consent of the nominee, who must be present.

10. Announcement of nominations

- (a) Before announcing the candidates nominated for any ballot, the Returning Officer shall advise the meeting of any invalid nominations received and the reason or reasons they have not been accepted.
- (b) If, in accordance with rule 23, no nominations are required to be received at the meeting but a ballot is required, the Returning Officer may advise the voters of the candidates' names either by circulating a list of the candidates or by displaying the names prominently on a blackboard, large notice or similar in plain view of the voters.
- (c) If nominations are required to be received at the meeting, the nominations may be announced only by display as above and a list of any nominations which may have been received prior to the meeting shall not be circulated.
- (d) The Returning Officer may also read out the candidates' names.
- (e) It shall not be necessary for a person validly nominated in writing to be present at the ballot.

11. Speeches by candidates

Whether or not candidates are invited to address the meeting, and for how long each, shall be a matter for the meeting to determine. However, the meeting shall ensure that candidates for any particular position are given equal opportunity (if any) to speak.

12. Method of voting

Voters shall write the names of the persons for whom they wish to vote IN ORDER OF PREFERENCE on the ballot paper. Surnames alone shall suffice if adequate to uniquely identify the candidates. Voters may write the names of as many of the candidates as they wish. The Returning Officer shall ensure that all voters are afforded a reasonable amount of time to read the lists of candidates and complete their ballot papers.

13. Counting the votes

Votes shall be counted using a transferable full value preferential method as follows:

- (a) Count all the ballot papers, eliminating any invalid papers. For this purpose, an invalid paper includes one which does not clearly indicate a first preference for one candidate.
- (b) Determine a quota, as follows:

$$\text{Quota} = 1 + \frac{\text{number of valid ballot papers}}{\text{vacancies to be filled}}$$

(if the result includes a fraction, reduce to the previous whole number)

If there is only one vacancy to be filled, the quota is achieved when one candidate has more than half the votes.

- (c) Sort all the papers into piles, one pile for each candidate, according to the first preferences. Record the number of first preference votes received by each candidate.
- (d) So long as is necessary, repeatedly eliminate the candidate with the least number of papers and redistribute that candidate's papers according to the next preference expressed on each.
- (e) If at any stage of the redistribution all the preferences on a paper are exhausted; or it is unclear which candidate is next in a voter's order of preference, set the paper aside as exhausted.
- (f) If there is only one vacancy to be filled, continue the redistribution until one candidate has at least half the total number of valid papers originally counted, or until all the preferences are exhausted. If any candidate receives more than half the total number of papers originally counted, he or she is elected. If all preferences are exhausted before this occurs, the candidate then having the largest number of papers is elected.

- (g) If there is more than one vacancy to be filled, repeatedly redistribute the papers as above until there are as many candidates with a quota of papers as there are vacancies to be filled. Those candidates are thus elected.
- (h) If during redistribution of papers the number of candidates remaining equals the number of vacancies to be filled, those candidates are elected, notwithstanding that one or more of them may not have achieved a quota.
- (i) If there is more than one vacancy to be filled but all preferences are exhausted before the number of candidates remaining in the distribution has been reduced to equal the number of vacancies, the candidates then having the highest number of valid ballot papers are elected.
- (j) If at any stage of the counting there is an equality of votes, the candidate having the largest number of first preferences shall be preferred or elected as the case requires. If in determining this there is an equality of first preferences, resort shall be made to the number of second and (if necessary) further preferences received in order to separate the candidates. If this process is still insufficient to separate the candidates, the Returning Officer may resolve the matter by the toss of a coin.

14. Declaration of the poll

If, in accordance with rule 23, any candidates are taken to be elected unopposed, the Returning Officer shall announce this to the meeting. The Returning Officer shall declare the result of any ballot by announcing:

- (a) the number of first preference votes received by each candidate;
- (b) if a redistribution of votes occurred, the order in which any unsuccessful candidates were eliminated; and
- (c) the names of the remaining successful candidate or candidates, whom the Returning Officer shall then declare to be elected.

15. Report by Returning Officer

The Returning Officer shall provide the Committee as soon as possible after any election with a written report containing:

- (a) a list of all nominees for each position filled;
- (b) if any nomination was rejected, the reasons for the rejection;
- (c) the results of any ballot, including the information referred to in 13 above;
- (d) a report of any circumstances causing difficulty during the conduct of the election; and
- (e) any other matter which appears to the Returning Officer to be relevant.

16. Retention of records

The Returning Officer shall ensure that the following are delivered to the Committee for retention in accordance with rule 50:

- (a) nomination forms;
- (b) ballot papers; and
- (c) lists of voters marked off in the distribution of ballot papers.
